Dear Readers,

We are in a period of lockdown. We are not sure when school will reopen the way it was before and when it does, how will life be? One thing we know is that life will be different.

What will be same, will be a combination of good and not-so-good times.

Yet we must find our little avenues of joy and fun and be inspired for a better tomorrow.

I for inspiration is our theme this week. Please scroll down to see why I say so 😊

I for Inspiration

Hello Friends! I am Pooja Bishnoi. I am 9 years old. I was born in a small village in Jodhpur, Rajasthan, India. I am the daughter of a farmer and I work very hard for around 8 hours in the field every day.

At the age of 5 years, I developed 6 pack abs. At the age of 8 years, I completed 3 kilometers in just 12 minutes in 50 seconds.

My coach, Mr. Sarvan Budhiya, also my maternal uncle, trained me so well that I came first in a race in my village where everyone else competing was a boy. After that I never looked back, and I completed 10 kilometers at the age of 6 in just 48 minutes.

I even sought and got support from Virat Kohli Foundation. It supported me and inspired me to work hard and earn all the medals I am wearing.

The Warrior and the Monster

One day, there were two people walking on the road. Suddenly, a massive monster came out from nowhere. It was almost unstoppable, and nobody could defeat it. The monster had teeth as big as trees, and terrible claws as sharp as a sword. It has terrible spines that can cut through metal and a tail as long as a train.

Then, a warrior from another planet came to earth. He found the monster in Singapore at Orchard. He had a sword the size of a person and had wings so that he could fly.

He called a magical beast from outer space. He rode the magical beast into battle. He used a staff, that can shoot lava, to harm the beast, but the beast quickly recovered. The warrior used the lava staff again and again, but it never worked. Finally, the monster landed a fatal blow on the magical beast's side. The monster had killed the magical beast. The warrior, driven by rage, suddenly turned into a dragon. He used his fire breath to destroy him. The beast finally disintegrated as fast as wind, but the warrior was still thinking about the magical beast, that had died, to save him from the monster.

Everybody in England was very happy because he defeated the vile beast. He received splendid and expensive gifts from everyone, but the best gift was from the King of England.

He decided to retire and give the warrior his throne. The warrior was delighted and decided to settle down on Earth.
